GARDEN LIST CLUB

The Garden List

A pocket guide to British garden birds

Where to look · What to listen for · How to tell them apart

Edition one · Autumn 2026

Before you start

START WHERE YOU ARE

A window, a garden, a balcony or the local park will do. The best spot is the one you will actually use.

BINOCULARS CAN WAIT

Buy a pair once you are hooked. They need not cost a fortune.

LOOK, THEN LOOK AGAIN

Note what the bird looked like and what it was doing. Comparing similar species side by side helps more than any app.

KEEP STILL

Sit quietly and be patient. Many birds are shy, or simply well hidden.

WRITE IT DOWN

A notebook of what you saw, and when, is how your knowledge grows.

Time of Day

DAWN

The dawn chorus starts about an hour before sunrise and is strongest in the half hour either side of it. Still, windless mornings carry song furthest.

WHO SINGS FIRST

Robins, blackbirds and thrushes open the chorus. Wrens and warblers follow. Tits, sparrows and finches join once it is light.

EVENING

The blackbird often starts the evening song. A warm summer evening is best.

NIGHT

From October, listen for the thin 'tseep' of redwings passing overhead in the dark.

No. 1
Robin

Erithacus rubecula

WHERE TO LOOK	Fence posts, low branches, the spade handle
LISTEN FOR	Short, sweet phrases with abrupt pauses
SHY OR BOLD	Bold. Follows the spade.
BEST TIME	All year; sings through autumn and winter
TELL IT APART	Young robins have no red breast

WORTH KNOWING

Males and females look identical. Young robins have no red breast at all, just speckled brown.

Some sing at night next to streetlights.

Good Manners

Current UK guidance, 2026

THE BIRD COMES FIRST

If it flies off or keeps calling in alarm, you are too close.

NO RECORDINGS

Never play recorded calls in the breeding season.

LEAVE NESTS ALONE

Disturbing some species at the nest is against the law in Britain.

FEEDING

Seeds and nuts from November to April. From May to October, only small amounts of mealworms, fat balls or suet.

KEEP IT CLEAN

Skip bird tables and tray feeders. Wash feeders and birdbaths every week, and change the water daily.

The Year in the Garden

JANUARY

A good month to count your garden birds for an hour.

MARCH

The dawn chorus gets going. The first sand martins arrive.

APRIL AND MAY

Swallows, house martins and swifts return. Redwings and fieldfares leave.

MAY AND JUNE

The dawn chorus at its peak.

JULY AND AUGUST

Moulting season. Birds go quiet and keep out of sight.

OCTOBER AND NOVEMBER

Winter visitors arrive: redwings and fieldfares on the berries, goldcrests from Scandinavia, blackbirds from northern Europe.

No. 2 House Sparrow

Passer domesticus

WHERE TO LOOK

Hedges and house walls, in groups

LISTEN FOR

Loud, repeated 'cheep cheep'

SHY OR BOLD

Bold near people, never far from cover

BEST TIME

All year; noisiest in spring

TELL IT APART

Tree sparrow: chestnut cap, black cheek spot

WORTH KNOWING

The male has a grey cap and a black bib, which varies in size. Females and young birds are plain brown, with no bib.

They bathe in groups, in birdbaths or in dust.

No. 3

Blackbird

Turdus merula

WHERE TO LOOK	On the lawn, turning over leaves
LISTEN FOR	Mellow song from a rooftop or treetop
SHY OR BOLD	Bold on lawns, loud alarm at cats
BEST TIME	Dawn and dusk, March to June
TELL IT APART	Song thrush: smaller, creamy, spotted breast

WORTH KNOWING

The blackbird is a thrush itself; the brown female is the one people mistake for a song thrush.

A leading voice in the dawn chorus, and often the one that starts the evening shift too.

☐ Seen it. Date _____ Where _____

No. 8

Wren

Troglodytes troglodytes

WHERE TO LOOK	Low in hedges and dense undergrowth
LISTEN FOR	Loud trilling song, sharp 'tic-tic-tic'
SHY OR BOLD	Secretive, heard more than seen
BEST TIME	Spring song, March to May
TELL IT APART	Cocked tail; dunnock is grey-headed, streaky

WORTH KNOWING

More than sixty wrens were once found packed into a single nest box to keep warm.

Remarkably loud for its size.

☐ Seen it. Date _____ Where _____

No. 7

Goldcrest

Regulus regulus

WHERE TO LOOK	High in conifers and big garden trees
LISTEN FOR	A very high, thin 'zee'
SHY OR BOLD	Never still, often hangs upside down
BEST TIME	Winter, often with roaming tit flocks
TELL IT APART	No white eyebrow – the firecrest has one

WORTH KNOWING

The UK's smallest bird, a title it shares with the firecrest.

It weighs about the same as a 20p coin.

☐ Seen it. Date _____ Where _____

No. 4

Great Tit

Parus major

WHERE TO LOOK	Feeders, woods and garden nest boxes
LISTEN FOR	A two-note 'teacher-teacher'
SHY OR BOLD	Bold; pushes smaller tits off feeders
BEST TIME	Winter flocks; spring 'teacher' song
TELL IT APART	Blue tit is smaller, with a blue cap

WORTH KNOWING

The largest tit in the UK.

They time their broods to the spring peak in caterpillars, and now lay earlier than they used to as springs warm.

☐ Seen it. Date _____ Where _____

No. 5

Goldfinch

Carduelis carduelis

WHERE TO LOOK	Seed feeders, thistles and teasels
LISTEN FOR	Fast, tinkling twitter, often in flight
SHY OR BOLD	Sociable, arrives in small flocks
BEST TIME	All year; winter flocks at feeders
TELL IT APART	Red face, gold flash on the wing

WORTH KNOWING

A group of goldfinches is a charm.

Its fine, pointed bill reaches seeds in thistles and teasels that other birds cannot get at.

☐ Seen it. Date _____ Where _____

No. 6

Bullfinch

Pyrrhula pyrrhula

WHERE TO LOOK	Woodland edges, hedges and orchards
LISTEN FOR	A soft, piping 'pew'
SHY OR BOLD	Very shy. Stand still and wait.
BEST TIME	Spring, at the tree buds
TELL IT APART	Black cap, white rump; chaffinch has wing flashes

WORTH KNOWING

Nearly always seen as a couple; pairs are thought to stay together for life.

In spring it eats tree buds, which once had Kent orchards paying people to scare bullfinches off.
